[From the Aldine.] MY EARTHLY LOVE.

No dim and dreamy ghost I sing.

Nor phantom floating in the air.

To one who treads the solid earth,
I send allie my song and prayer.
To poriect matter strong and sweet.
The face and form of her I love;
The matchiess speech and subtle breath
And eyelid trembling like a dore
A dove within an earthly nest,
Who hears the coming of her mate,
Or feels his kiss upon her breast,
And chides him that he comes so late.

The matchiess joy of sense I sing!
The earthly joy of here and now;
Refore no fading ghost I kneel—
Before no distant future bow.
Go, little song, and seek the hips
of her who waits thee with a kins;
And tell her, only in her arms
Tay poet-master dreams of bliss.
No angel seen by prophet eye.
Nor shaped by art with peerless grace,
With feet that tread the armre sky.
And roam the boundless field of space,
is half so true or specify fair.
As one who walks with me apart;
I tose me is her shining hair,—
She is the goddes of my heart.

O Death, so like a stormy cloud Within a gentle summer sky. Thou lonely phantom sad to see, I will not fear the though I die! Go, little song, to her I love, And tell her death is in the air; It is his shadow on the world That makes the present moment fair We have one hour of life and love. And age filled with silent sleep—There is no time for faith to pray. Nor time for sullen grief to weep. Go, tell her if we love not now. The life we live is only death and dust that have no joy in time. And only feed on bitter breath.
